This DVD has been developed to prepare dental students and teachers appropriately to receive and provide feedback in dental education. It is the first DVD in a series of educational videos produced by QUT and Griffith University to address the issue of feedback in dental education. It is intended to be used by dental students and teachers to enhance their understanding and skills in providing and receiving feedback. The DVD covers a range of topics related to feedback, including the importance of feedback, the types of feedback, and strategies for giving and receiving feedback. It also provides examples of feedback in dental education. This DVD was produced in collaboration with the School of Dental Science at Griffith University.
